Sao Paulo, 2025.

Isabel's new venture will enable her to gain independence over her domineering chef boss Alex and preserve relevance among her peers. She courts an investor for her project, but a deal never takes shape.

Isabel is reckless in her thirst — she must now uncork her dream with no funding. Will her protégé Nico follow her down an increasingly bumpy road? Testing the loyalties of those closest to her, including her husband Fred, Isabel relies dangerously on deception to keep the wine bar goal alive.

Taking place over a tumultuous few months, ISABEL is a study of unrelenting pursuits, a tragi-comical snapshot of passion converging with folly.

TIMELY ISSUES . HISTORICAL . ARCHIVES

During the years 1958 to 1989, the Swedish public broadcaster SVT's reporting from Israel and Palestine was unique.

Their reporters were constantly present in the war-affected region, documenting everything from everyday life to international crises. This extensive treasure of footage makes up the material for Goran Hugo Olsson's new film, where footage of the rise of the Israeli state is interwoven with the Palestinian struggle for independence. News coverage with Yasser Arafat and interviews with Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban during a visit to Sweden are parts of exclusive archive material that has not been shown since first broadcast.
